Student strike spreads

DeGaulle target of protest

PARIS (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of protesters against the De Gaulle regime surged through the heart of Paris Monday in the climax of a day of general strike and demonstrations across France. The protests seemed a success, but strike effects were so spotty it was often difficult to tell one was on.

Workers, students, people of all ages and classes marched for three miles amid chants for President Charles de Gaulle to resign and cries of "De Gaulle assassin! De Gaulle assassin!"

It was the largest people's parade through Paris in memory and the strongest such demonstration against De Gaulle's 10-year-old Fifth Republic. He leaves Tuesday for Romania on a state visit.

After some concessions from the regime toward students who had rioted last week, the demonstrations took on a wide tone of criticism against the entire Gaullist structure.

De Gaulle talked with premier Georges Pompidou Monday night—for the second time during the day—about the strike and demonstration.

As the last of the demonstrators joined the line of march, it was estimated that there had been a solid cortege of 20 abreast for 3½ hours. Organizers of the demonstration started off estimating a million people, but later scaled this down to 700,000 to 800,000. Official sources who refused to be identified said their information indicated 200,000 to 300,000.

The parade headed peacefully into the Left Bank but armed police in battle dress massed at bridges crossing the Seine to block any attempts by students to cross to the Right Bank, where American and North Vietnamese diplomats are holding preliminary peace talks.

School bill referred to committee

HARRISBURG (AP) — A House-approved bill that would provide about $27 million in state aid for nonpublic schools was given to the Senate Appropriations Committee Monday amid predictions that further action would be slow in coming.

Sen. George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, committee chairman, said he did not expect his panel to release the bill to the floor for some time.

"The bill will receive early attention," Wade said, "but don't expect prompt action, because there is no money in sight."

Wade said the committee would consider the bill "within the next couple of weeks."

The bill, which would set up a special authority to purchase educational services from private and parochial schools, was passed by the House last Wednesday.

As now drafted, the measure would finance the nonpublic school authority by allocating to it 15 per cent of the state's annual cigarette tax collections.

Several ranking Republican senators have voiced dissatisfaction with the measure, preferring instead to finance the program out of horse racing revenues.

The work stoppage itself, called by the country's four major labor unions to support student protests against police action during the past week of savage rioting in the Latin Quarter, was a near failure.

Organizers had hoped for nationwide paralysis. But despite appeals by the unions and student groups for a total walkout of French workers there were only relatively minor disruptions in transport and electric power.

There were practically no mail deliveries in Paris, but service was continued in smaller towns. About half of Paris' subway trains were running and long-distance train service was normal. Electricity service came back on in the afternoon after being cut in many areas, including the hotels that house the American and North Vietnamese delegations.

10,000 slated for Vietnam

20,000 reserves go active

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Armed services reserves and National Guardsmen, some 20,000 strong, left their homes and reported for active duty at military centers across the country Monday. They may be kept in uniform up to two years, and 10,000 already are earmarked for Vietnam.

The men were notified of their call-up in mid-April and given 30 days to arrange their affairs. In general, they seemed in good spirits and some were anxious to be sent overseas quickly.

"If I'm going to be on active duty I'd rather be in Vietnam than anywhere else," said 22-year-old Robert Anspach, who reported with a Navy Seabee battalion at Oklaheima City. Another of the group was Chief Petty Officer Luther Hall, 44, a veteran of World War II and Korea, whose son recently returned from Vietnam duty.

In Indianapolis members of 100-man Company D of the 151st

Indiana National Guard Infantry expressed hope that they would be sent into action as a unit rather than used as replacements.

Adj. Gen. John S. Anderson of the Indiana National Guard wrote the Defense Department asking it to "grant this group of dedicated soldiers the consideration they seek."

Capt. James M. Hendricks,

commanding 120 men of the Reserve 377th Light Maintenance Company who reported at Manitowish, Wis., said "their morale is increasingly higher as they are getting into the swing of it."

Sgt. Tom Turnock, reporting with the 69th Kansas National Guard Infantry Brigade at Topeka, who is married and the father of two, said recently, "If you've got to go, you've got to go." Another member of the brigade, Spec. 4 Jerrol Banner, 24, complained that "personally I feel it is unnecessary."

Among the 181 men of the Florida's reserve 231st Transportation Company reporting at St. Petersburg, Fla., was Pfc. William T. Reid, 25, whose wife commented: "We didn't expect it at all. We've only been married about four months. It means we won't be able to start a family as soon as we expected."

The 70-member Reserve 259th Quartermaster Battalion reported at Salt Lake City, where the unit commander, Lt. Col. Charles Bitter, told newsmen, "We're in good spirits. Everyone has accepted the assignment willingly."

Reservists reporting in Cleveland included the 1002d Supply and Service Company, which has 233 enlisted men and nine officers.

Secranka said most members of the unit were white collar workers who would suffer financial hardship shifting from civilian to Army payrolls.

In Illinois the 185 members of the 724th Transportation Company of Forest Park, a Chicago suburb, were sworn in at 7:30 a.m.

East Germans repeat refrain, 'Go East, people, Go East'

BERLIN (AP) — With vacation days around the corner, East Germans are being told: Go East, people, go East.

This advice is made necessary by the Communist regime's fear that any able-bodied East German who went to any but socialist countries might not come back.

Where they can go is made clear for vacationing East Germans in a layout put together by the official travel agency, with the cover title "Travel Tips '68".

The travel journal says Bulgaria, Poland, Hungary, Romania and Czechoslovakia, as well as the Soviet Union, are favorite vacation goals.

Handy Czechoslovakia and the sunny Black Sea beaches of Romania and Bulgaria are used by many East Germans to meet their relatives from West Germany.

Peace talks started on predictable note

PARIS (AP) — In its turn, each side in the Vietnam war demanded Monday that the other side scale down the bitter conflict as a step toward peace.

But the special emissaries of Presidents Johnson and Ho Chi

Minh—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and Minister of State Xuan Thuy — were careful to muffle their charges and countercharges in relatively mild terms. It was as if they were signaling a readiness to talk on and on, despite their public postures, to end war both said they detest.

It was a predictable sendoff for the long awaited encounter, held amid the Gobelins tapestries and glittering chandeliers of the storied former Majestic Hotel within sight of the Arch of Triumph.

Harriman and Thuy, seasoned in the graces of diplomacy, each courteously promised to study the presentation of the other and to meet again Wednesday.

The central demand of Thuy's declaration, delivered first at Harriman's invitation, was as simple as it was stark: "Since the U.S. government has unleashed the war of destruction against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the U.S. has to definitively and unconditionally cease its bombing raids and other acts of war on the whole territory of the DRV."

"That is the prime and most pressing legitimate demand of the DRV..."

To the relief of some on the American side, Thuy did not go on then to warn he will leave the conference if he does not get his way. He spoke instead of the "serious attitude and good will" with which his side intends seeking an end of American military action in order to be able to proceed "to other points of interest."

This was a plain reference to the problem of a wider peace settlement—the problem which Harriman made the theme of his 2,000-word address.

America's millionaire trouble-shooting diplomat outlined a seven-point program for peace in all Indochina, beginning with a swift agreement to restore the once demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam as a genuine buffer.

Mr. Thuy meet Mr. Harriman

PARIS (AP) — Neither side sat with its back to the wall.

W. Averell Harriman and his team of U.S. negotiators sat with backs to a row of windows overlooking Avenue Kleber near the Arch of Triumph.

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy and his aides sat with their backs to a row of doors leading to the corridor of Paris' International Conference Center, once the Hotel Majestic, a place of luxury before World War II.

The first words in the first contact between the two chief negotiators came from Harriman.

The towering American strode into the ornate conference room and spotted the North Vietnamese conference leader.

"Mr. Thuy," he said, and stuck out his hand.

Xuan Thuy took it and the two men shook hands vigorously.

The U.S. No. 2 man, Cyrus R. Vance, then shook hands with Thuy and other North Vietnamese delegates.

After the handshaking, Harriman led the 10 other Americans to the side of the table farthest from the entrance. He and Vance sat in high back gilt chairs upholstered in red velvet. Their aides and advisers ranged on either side.

Ambassador Thuy, and his deputy, Col. Ha Van Lau, took exactly comparable chairs on the opposite side of the table and the other members of their delegation—also 11 persons—settled in on their side.

Saigon attack crushed

SAIGON (AP) — With 5,000 North Vietnamese pressing in for the kill, U.S. cargo planes have airlifted nearly 1,700 allied troops and civilians from mountain-ringed Kham Duc Special Forces camp near Da Nang, the U.S. Command reported Monday. At the same time, allied commanders declared the Viet Cong offensive in Saigon crushed.

The North Vietnamese at Kham Duc shot down a four-engine U.S. C130 Hercules transport loaded with government troops as it lifted off the tiny airstrip Sunday.

The plane crashed and exploded, killing its six U.S. crewmen and an "unknown number" of South Vietnamese soldiers and civilian irregulars, the command said. A C130 can carry up to 100 passengers.

Driving hard to block the evacuation, the North Vietnamese killed 19 U.S. soldiers and Marines and wounded another 125 in the desperate rear-guard action. No figures were available on casualties among the civilian irregulars who formed the camp's main defense force, but 29 Vietnamese army soldiers were known to have been wounded.

The U.S. Command said 300 enemy soldiers were killed in the fighting that erupted Friday and ended when the final cargo plane lumbered off the airstrip near dusk Sunday. It added air strikes later killed more.

Rocky's campaign seen soaring

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon said Monday that Nelson Rockefeller's race for the Republican presidential nomination is "beginning to soar" and the New York governor "may get it on the third ballot."

Poor People's Abernathy aims at nation's pharaohs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign raised its wooden camp on a lawn by the Lincoln Memorial Monday to begin what its leaders say will be a summer-long siege of Congress.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy promised protesters, "We're going to plague the pharaohs of this nation, with plague after plague, until they agree to give us meaningful jobs and a guaranteed annual income."

About 400 demonstrators chanted "Freedom!" with each blow of the hammer as Abernathy drove the first nail for the tent-shaped plywood dwellings that will house the throng of marchers converging on the nation's capital.

Although the Pentagon placed an unannounced number of troops in what it termed "a state of readiness," there were no incidents of any type reported.

Abernathy, leader of the campaign planned by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said, "We're going to stay here until the Congress acts or the Congress adjourns, and then we will go on wherever Congress goes."

The civil rights leader wore blue denim work trousers, a carpenter's apron and a denim jacket in contrast to his usual dark suit. The top three buttons of the jacket were open to bare his chest. But he rode to and from the site in a Chrysler Imperial.

The first marchers arrived by bus from Mississippi and Tennessee Sunday. Other regiments wound their way toward Michigan, South Carolina and New Jersey. March leaders predict 3,000 demonstrators will be housed at the campsite by the weekend.

Southern congressmen repeatedly have predicted violence, but Abernathy told the demonstrators, "Let me make this crystal clear: this is a nonviolent movement. We are not going to destroy any person or property."

But beyond that, Abernathy said, he could give no guarantees because the protesters intend to plague the nation until their demands are met.

"We are tired of living with rats and roaches while a few people live in mansions with wall-to-wall carpeting," he said.

Abernathy led the demonstrators in singing the civil rights anthem, "We Shall Overcome," then read the Bible's Psalms 37, which includes the verse,

Kennedy faces touring field

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — It was Sen. Robert F. Kennedy against the Democrats field and Richard M. Nixon topping the GOP list as candidates would up their campaigning for today's Nebraska presidential primary.

Kennedy played the traditional game of hedging against a possibly unsatisfactory outcome. He insisted that he couldn't get the 50 per cent of the Democratic vote that would notify prospective convention delegates in other states that his campaign for the nomination was surging in high gear.

Former Postmaster General

Lawrence F. O'Brien, a Kennedy strategist said he thinks that if the New York Senator gets 35 per cent of the vote in the Democratic column he will have racked up a substantial victory. He noted that in Nebraska the late John F. Kennedy hit his lowest mark of 37.9 per cent in the 1960 presidential race with Nixon.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Kennedy's chief rival on the ballot, expressed confidence he will do better at the polls Tuesday than he did when he ran third in last week's Indiana primary. Kennedy got 42 per cent of the vote in that test. McCarthy placed behind Gov. Roger D. Branigan, a favorite son candidate, with 27 per cent.

The Minnesota senator declined to deal in percentages, saying that "a horse doesn't have to predict who's going to win a race."

O'Brien expressed public concern that a campaign for a Democratic write-in for Nixon might cut into Kennedy's strength.

Farmers want to bargain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Nine out of 10 farmers want laws to give them more power to bargain on their own and reduce federal control of commodities, according to a poll in the May issue of the Farm Journal.

The magazine, which claims three million circulation, said its poll indicated most farmers are anxious to "organize into associations that will bargain with processors and buyers over prices and other terms."

The magazine said some 85 per cent of the 5,000 respondents to the poll favor collective bargaining. They also want a fair play "marketing rights" law which would penalize buyers who discriminate against farmers who join a co-op or bargaining group, Farm Journal said.

The poll included sizable responses from members of all major farm organizations, Farm Journal reported.

In it, 78 per cent said they opposed giving the government veto power over a contract between a bargaining group and buyers if the government feels it unduly raises prices.

On the question of withholding commodities from market to try to force higher prices, 68 per cent said they favored the practice.

In an editorial on the poll, the journal said, "If there's one thing clearer than any other, it's the fact that farmers want to call the shots themselves. They are asking for a favorable climate from Congress in which to bargain—but they do not want the heavy hand of government in bargaining itself."

Confessions court ruling worries DA

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter asked Pennsylvania's Supreme Court Monday to reconsider its opinion that laid down new guidelines on how police may obtain confessions.

The high tribunal 10 days ago ruled that a confession obtained by police from a 17-year-old New Kensington girl violated her constitutional rights. The court said she hadn't been advised properly that a lawyer could better help her understand the nature of the charges.

Geraldine Taper was convicted of second-degree murder in the 1965 gun slaying of a Westmoreland County man.

Dist. Atty. Joseph M. Loughran of Westmoreland County appealed — and Specter Monday joined him in seeking a new hearing in the case.

"All but a handful of the thousands of confessions given throughout the Commonwealth over the past two years are inadmissible under the new ruling by the court," Specter said. "The effect (however) will be felt most severely in murder cases, where the victim is no longer available to testify against the defendant."

Shafer, Con-Con lampooned at newsmen's annual fling

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Shafer, the General Assembly and the Constitutional Convention were lampooned in song and skit Monday at the 38th Gridiron Dinner of the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association.

The show was entitled "Dudley Do-Right Rides Again, or Shafer is the Guy in the White Hat."

Shafer was portrayed as "Dudley-Do-Right," a Royal Mounted Policeman seeking someone with whom to do battle. His foils turn out to be the leaders of the General Assembly and a host of issues such as aid to nonpublic schools and taxes.

To the tune of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Shafer is heard to lament about his prospects of finding a place on the 1968 Republican Presidential ticket.

"O they say I look like Rushmore and I have a craggy face. 'How I'd like to run for President—oh what a change of pace."

"If I could get elected I'd come in from outer space."

"And I'd salvage something yet."

The legislature was lampooned for the difficulty it had last year in adopting a $264 million tax package. The Republican leadership was depicted bemoaning its tax woes to the tune of "Sunrise, Sunset," from the Broadway play, "Fiddler on the Roof."

"Sales tax—wage tax—sales tax—wage tax 'Eight per cent or one."

"Which is gonna hurt the worst boys."

"When once again we have to run."

The correspondents poked fun at the three-month Constitutional Convention to the tune of the drinking song from "The Student Prince." The parody declared:

"Think, Think, Think—We members of Con-Con are leasers—we don't like to work."

"Moans, Moans, Moans—We groan at the duties of office we all want to shirk."

"We took months to relax in the House."

"We labored like mountains and brought forth a mouse."

The Correspondents Association claims to be the oldest state organization of its kind in the nation.

Saul Kohler of the Philadelphia Inquirer is its current president. Burton W. Siglin of United Press International was chairman of the show committee.

The committee for the "William Penn Almanac," the parody book which is distributed to the dinner guests, was headed by Vincent P. Carocci of the Associated Press and Duke Kaminski of the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Appointee past PSEA president

Wilson acting Cheyney prexy

CHEYNEY, Pa. (AP)—Dr. Wade R. Wilson former president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, was named acting president of Cheyney State College Monday to succeed Dr. Leroy Banks Allen.

Allen resigned last Friday for what he said was the good of the school in the wake of student demonstrations that included seizure of the campus administration building for three days. About a third of the predominantly Negro school's 1,800 students participated in the protests. Ouster of Allen was near the top of list of student demands.

Both Allen and Wilson are Negroes.

Wilson, director of the development, grants and awards program, is a Cheyney graduate and has been on the faculty since 1947. He was president of the PSEA last year.

Allen came to Cheyney in 1965 after seven years as president of Bluefield (W.Va.) State College.

The appointment of the 53-year-old Wilson was announced Monday at a college assembly by Hobson H. Reynolds of Philadelphia, newly elected director of the college trustees.

Reynolds said the trustees had accepted Allen's resignation "with deep regret."

Wilson told the students and faculty "student power, plus faculty power, plus staff power plus a double dose of unity will lead to what I know each of us want Cheyney State College to be—the best college in the nation."

From 1957 until January Wilson had been chairman of Cheyney's industrial arts department. He is a graduate of Donora, (Pa.) High School and also holds degrees from Pennsylvania State University and New York University.

Mamie readies farm for Ike GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower unpacked and puttered about the big white farmhouse Monday in hopeful expectation that her famous husband will soon rejoin her there.

She left former President Dwight D. Eisenhower behind in California recovering from a recurring mild heart attack when she came east by train. An aide indicated she probably would go to Washington Tuesday where Eisenhower is expected soon at Walter Reed Hospital to begin a period of recuperation.

It was understood that while in Washington, Mrs. Eisenhower will undergo her customary annual physical checkup at Walter Reed.

Mrs. Eisenhower's party arrived back in Gettysburg early Monday after a train trip across the continent. They detrained at Harrisburg and were driven the 40 miles from the state capital to the Eisenhower farm.

Mrs. Eisenhower was smiling happily when she got off the train in Harrisburg. She told a news photographer:

"Now make sure Ike sees this picture."

It was important, she explained, because he had remembered her on Mother's Day with a corsage of orchids presented to her while en route.

"I want him to see how happy I am with his white corsage," she said.

"I would feel a great deal happier if my man were getting off the train here, but he is doing fine and I pray that he will be home soon."

She said the former president and five-star general was "in excellent spirits when I left him."

The staff readied the farm home after one of the longest winter absences of the Eisenhowers. Mrs. Eisenhower busied herself with the inconsequential and over-all supervision of the operation.

The Eisenhowers traveled by train to their winter home at Palm Desert, Cal., last December and were to have returned May 4. Eisenhower's illness intervened.

Another traffic victim Monday was 15-year-old John E. White of Phoenixville.

Leaking oxygen forms dense mist

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. (AP)—Thousands of gallons of liquid oxygen spewed from a leak in a storage tank Monday, forming a vaporous mist that blanketed the immediate neighborhood.

The leak at the nearby National Cylinder Division of Chemtron Corp. forced the temporary shutdown of a new basic oxygen furnace at the nearby Alan Wood Steel Co., which receives its oxygen supply from National Cylinder.

Police closed an adjacent highway to traffic due to the mist. The resulting detour caused a mammoth traffic jam in Conshohocken. Firemen were at the scene as a precaution.

Cause of the leak was not immediately known.

Saylorsburg, unique historic community

By Fred Walter
Pocono Record Reporter

SAYLORSBURG — Each community retains a certain historic value for itself, unique and peculiar to its origin and founding individuals.

Some can boast a little more with some lively tell-tall tales and others have buried memories of more infamous days, but then, there are the countless 'vills and 'burts that spot the land with necessary lies that neither seem to wax nor wane.

One can spend a lifetime traveling through these specks of dwellings and by-pass them with a casual nod of curiosity but then, one has better things to do and indifference carries you beyond these little strangers.

Stop and see

Well, why don't I dare to stop myself one of these days and see what these little places are made of? I did.

Saylorsburg happened to fill my sight, traveling south on Route 115 in Ross township, when the scattered colorings of houses were spotted among the emerging greens of the trees.

There is one that stands higher, holding an identity of its own, the old Lake House Hotel, an original structure which has been added to and changed.

It used to be a stage coach stop on the old Wilkes-Barre Easton turnpike run. Across the street, where the horses were kept, the original cistern of the stables still remains.

Amongst creeks and mountains
Although the village is divided between Ross and Hamilton Townships, the old records show its origin in Hamilton, as it sets between the Buckwha and Aquashicola Creek, edged along the Blue Ridge mountain section bordering the county line between Monroe and Northampton, just north of Ross Common.

It was also first known as Saylorsville, according to an 1845 historical account and just another post village along the stage turnpike.

It was laid out by Charles and Samuel Saylor, about 1825.

who purchased the land, erected a tavern, believed to have been the original Lake House Hotel, of which Peter Kemmerer was first landlord. The Kemmerer name still is listed under nine families in the county.

Jacob Haney was the proprietor in 1845. There are now nine families listed under that name in the county and most still live in Ross and Hamilton townships.

Living descendants

Charles Saylor, still has living descendants. He had two sons, Theodore and David. David never married, but Theodore had a son, Charles, who died at the age of 80 about 25 years ago. But his wife, now 92, still lives with her only daughter, Mrs. Mac Saylor Brinton in the Saylor home across the Lake House Hotel.

Mrs. Saylor recalled, her husband Charles, being born in the Saylors Inn, also owned by her grandfather. He also opened and ran the first store, was Justice of the Peace from 1840 to 1845 and school director in 1849, along with a Charles Haney, another founding citizen of the town. A John W. Meekes kept an additional hotel at the time, and David Saylor was first postmaster.

Founded bank

The original First Stroudsburg National bank was founded with Charles Saylor and a Jay Gould who was at time a comparable John D. Rockefeller. Mrs. Saylor recalled.

Saylorsburg also had its industrial hey-day when the Blue Ridge Clay and Enamel Co. manufactured the finest crafted enamel brick which are still part of the fireplace in the Lake House.

A railroad station was maintained by Charles for the Lehigh-New England railroad, as he was the first stationmaster and telegraph operator, Mrs. Saylor recalled.

about her husband. Both facilities discontinued at the turn of the century.

There was also an icehouse ran by the Lackawanna Ice Co. from Newark, N.J. and a millhouse which still stands, and was originally a toll station along the old turnpike, Mrs. Saylor added.

The first Charles Saylor was also known as "King of the Landlords" as a history study noted, while he used to entertain soldiers during the Civil War days.

One name will lead to another; all the little insignificances will relate to a great significance and the lives embrace and continue to make history.

In addition to ratings on the program, those participating will be given report cards checking their technique, interpretation and many other facets of their degree of skill.

Defiant bear loses his life

GERMAN VALLEY — Last summer a mother bear and her two cubs enjoyed a honey-hunt at the Otto Degen place in German Valley, Pike County and destroyed eleven hives before they made their departure.

On Saturday, just before dark, Degen's dogs began barking frantically and when he investigated, he found not more than 150 feet away, a big bruiser of a bear.

The creature paid no attention to the dogs and Degen, armed with a rifle and two shells, darted out of the house.

"That bear was defiant," Degen said. "He rose right up to his full six foot height and dared me to come out."

With that, Degen shot the 400-pound bear in the head."

Armed Forces Week at Tobyhanna

Tobyhanna Army Depot, one of the largest military installations of its kind in the world, is currently knee-deep in its celebration of Armed Forces Week.

The Depot time and time again brings national and international focus to Monroe County and to the Tobyhanna region. It has played a prominent role in global skirmishes ever since it moved to this region from Baltimore and Philadelphia.

This massive arsenal of peace and war currently employs in the neighborhood of 4,000 people, with approximately 700 living within the borders of Monroe County.

The arrival of the Depot in this region pumped needed life into the area's economy. It has since been a credit to the region and has presented a helping hand on far too many occasions to mention.

Those making the many guided tours of the military installation this week will discover what the sprawling layout means to our current war effort in Vietnam.

They will see how machinery, vehicles and communication equipment are flown directly from Vietnam, repaired or rebuilt quickly and returned to the war zone almost before being missed.

Those who are able to make the tour of the spacious military layout should certainly take advantage of the opportunity. There will be several tours daily for the remainder of the week.

Armed Forces Week is being celebrated one way or another across the United States and we are fortunate to have one of the biggest and most productive installations of its type in the world.

For this, we all should be proud.

Welcome news

State Insurance Commissioner David O. Maxwell's rejection of proposed automobiles insurance rate increases is welcomed by policyholders long accustomed to seeing rate hikes approved in this state with little or no question.

Maxwell's decision offers another indication that consumer interests as well as insurance company interests will be given consideration in his office.

In recent years, auto insurance appeals for higher rates almost always have been granted in full or at least in part.

The argument that a higher accident rate, higher hospital and auto repair costs and higher jury awards for damages has increased insurance claim payments is indisputable. But the size of the rate increases needed to meet higher payments has been debatable.

Moreover, increased costs have been partially offset by peremptory policy cancellations and by increasing rates for policyholders receiving claims to recover part of the payment.

The result is that many policyholders now decline to file minor claims, preferring to pay for damages themselves rather than have insurance rates increased. The net effect is that policyholders sometimes do not receive all the protection for which they are paying ever-increasing rates.

Maxwell's decision that there was not adequate proof of the need for higher rates which, if approved, would be excessive under terms of state law was not lightly made. He conducted a public hearing and retained a qualified actuary to advise him.

Regulations governing auto insurance cancellations, passed by both houses of the General Assembly and now in conference committee, should be released soon for final enactment into law.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Maxwell has extended to Pennsylvania auto insurance policyholders protection they haven't had in recent years against unwarranted increases in cost of protection against the expense of auto accidents.

With Gene Brown

As much as they (scientists) are in demand today, it's quite possible that we'll need other kinds of people tomorrow.

What other kinds of people might we need? A little story they tell about a physicist of international renown may help explain it. The physicist, it seems, overheard the maid answering a telephone inquiry. "Yes," she told the caller, "this is where Dr. — lives, but he's not the kind of doctor that does anybody any good."

The maid's attitude may explain why there is a shortage of accredited scientists today — they just haven't been appreciated.

We'll need the kind of doctor who does people good in the sense the maid intended, and we also will need plenty of mechanics who can fix things our host of scientists create. If and when they break down, and who can preserve the memory of how to start a fire by rubbing two sticks together and similar primitive lore, should it ever come in handy.

There has been a sharp decline in the number of young people entering the skilled crafts in recent years, according to reports from Washington. A large scientific body lacking recruits in this department will be like the proverbial army that is all generals.

Government for the people?

Closed door policy popular in Congress

By MARY C. BERRY

Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Why are so many Congressional hearings closed to the public?

A recent survey by Congressional Quarterly, a publication which keeps careful, non-partisan tabs on what goes on in Congress, showed that 39 per cent of all Congressional committees met behind closed doors last year.

There were some rules for the CQ survey: the magazine did not count meetings held when Congress was not in session, meetings held away from Washington, meetings of conference committees appointed to iron out difference between the House and Senate versions of the same legislation, meetings of the House Rules Committee which sets the rules under which a bill may be debated on the floor, and informal, non-official meetings.

Complete secrecy

CQ noted that one House committee, the House Appropriations Committee, held all 383 of its sessions in private in 1967. It is the committee's custom.

To a large extent, these closed Appropriations Committee meetings are a farce.

Last week, the Public Works Subcommittee was hearing testimony on 1969 budget appropriations for public works projects. The subcommittee met in the Caucus Room of the oldest House office building, a high-ceilinged, drafty room, the doors of which open onto a marble double staircase.

Inside, members of the committee sat listening to testimony. Witnesses wandered in and out at will, listening to one another's testimony. Outside, a small knot of reporters waited to waylay the witnesses.

Every unrecognized person who left the hearing room was confronted with a barrage of questions.

"Are you from New Jersey?" "New York?" "Kentucky?" "Are you Mr. Smith from the New Jersey Utilities Co.?" "Who is Mrs. Jones?" "Do you know Gov. Nunn's personal representative?"

Eventually, most of the reporters got printed statements, asked their questions and went away to write their stories.

The next day, the identical witnesses appeared before a Senate Public Works Appropriations subcommittee in open session and told the senators just what they had told the congressmen the day before. The hearings are scheduled this way for the convenience of the witnesses.

Perhaps it is not important to keep the testimony of these so-called "public" witnesses a secret. However, the public works subcommittees earlier this year heard from representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers which is responsible for all public works projects. On Tuesday, the Corps testified before the House — privately. On Wednesday, the same men said the same things to a Senate panel — publicly. The only difference lay in the questions asked by the Members of Congress.

Some good reasons

There are obviously some very good reasons why committees should meet in private. Sometimes committee members are briefed by representatives of the administration on matters affecting the country's security. On other occasions, members must deliberate in executive sessions — to devise the compromise upon which the legislative process depends. No one can dispute the need for some executive sessions.

However, these are several good arguments for having routine meetings such as those conducted by the House Appropriations Committee open to the public.

Confusion such as has arisen over the Tocks Island project which is apparently threatened by rising costs and sinking benefits could perhaps have been averted if the subcommittee's deliberations had been less private. More than one congressman who testified this week in support of the project noted that his constituents were worried and upset by reports that the project was in jeopardy. And many of the witnesses were not sure how to pitch their statements — just what was it that disturbed the subcommittee about the Tocks Island project?

There is another selfish argument for having this sort of hearing open — selfish from the Members' point-of-view. Much of their time is spent fighting for funds for their districts — not just public works funds — and they might as well get some publicity for it.

Since their testimony goes unnoticed by the press unless a controversy arises about the funds in question, too few of their constituents know what congressmen do to earn their $30,000 a year.

Letters to the Editor

Tocks foe criticizes report

Editor, The Record:

I suppose I should have learned by now, but you still continue to amaze me by the skillful way in which your paper can "bring down" somebody that you wish to discredit, particularly those who are opposed to the Tocks Island Dam, the DWGNRA, and all that these projects would do to one of our most beautiful and historic river valleys.

I refer specifically to the person who describes herself as "Mary Berry, Record Washington Bureau," in her write-up on page 11 of your May 9, 1968, edition, where she is reporting very casually and incompletely on the testimony before the House of Representatives Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee against the two projects. In referring to my wife, the news release says, "Mrs. Matheson, who described herself as a native of the valley in question, charged..." etc.

Now, Mr. Editor, I'll wager that a good many of your staff know that Joan Matheson (nee Transue) was born in Stroudsburg, raised in Shawnee-on-Delaware, the daughter of Bill Transue, who owned Camp Wyomissing. Her ancestors, of French Huguenot stock, were among the first to settle in this valley. If your newspaper staff, many of whom are undoubtedly "casual visitors" or far from natives, didn't know this, they could have found it out with very little trouble. They know it at the First Stroudsburg National Bank, they know it at Wyckoff's, they know it at the Monroe County General Hospital, and many other places in Monroe County and Pike County.

As a matter of fact, my wife has not only the best credentials in the world as a native of the Minisink, the heart of the Delaware Valley, but her heart is here too. The conflict between her love for this valley and the self-interested and well-heeled individuals and organizations who are pushing for its destruction and never mind the ethics, may eventually succeed in breaking that heart which they have already badly damaged.

Two additional items:

(1) It obviously broke your heart to see Nancy Shukaitis (one of the stoutest opponents of Tocks Island) elected as a Monroe County Commissioner. She's probably the best citizen Monroe County has ever had as a commissioner.

(2) I spent 28 years in the Army Corps of Engineers after graduating from West Point, and I am now retired. My father and older brother were also regular Army officers in the Corps of Engineers. And I am thoroughly ashamed of the spineless way in which the Corps has allowed itself to be used as the prime protagonist for these wasteful, useless and possibly dangerous projects.

The dam cannot possibly begin to do all the things expected of it by the many interests which continue to push it. It has very little to do with flood control and is a complete negation of conservation. The conduct of some of the local Corps of Engineers employees has been high-handed and disgraceful.

I doubt very much if you will publish this letter; if you should, it might help a little to restore my former faith in the fairness and basically honest motives of the press, most of which your paper has been largely instrumental in destroying.

I think you owe it to my wife to clarify her status as a true native of this part of the Delaware Valley, the destruction of which you are so avidly supporting, by fair means or foul.

DAVID M. MATHESON
Dingmans Ferry

(EDITOR'S NOTE — We realize Mrs. Matheson is a native of the Minisink, but during the course of the hearings in Washington, she did "describe herself as a native of the valley in question.")

Campus at work

BERKELEY, CALIF. — Sights and sounds of a great campus in lively ferment:

To begin somewhere, it is probably the most beautiful campus in the world. It climbs a superb green hill, dotted with bewilderingly varied but somehow complementary styles of architecture ranging from ancient Grecian to early Sam Bronston. It is all held in place by 200 varieties of trees, including the first avocado tree planted in California (Circa 1879).

Squirrels abound in the Eucalyptus Grove. Nuts abound on the steps of the main student center. In its centennial year the University of California has ten Nobel Laureates, more than any other university, many bearded and ragged young men, many fetching, long-haired, leggy nymphs, and the sober-sided scholar-types who are in the vast majority of the 27,000 students.

"It's not right to feel a little smug about what happened at Columbia," a pipe-type said at the Faculty Club. "But when we had our rebellion in 1964 the general consensus back east in the Ivy League was 'well, what else could you expect of those California crackpots? They're Johnny-come-latelies.'"

No damage

"But none of our kids so much as broke a window, much less held a dean as a hostage and vandalized the president's office."

"I look for Princeton to blow up next," another said, contently.

Looks like a Long Hot Millennium for the Ivy League.

Now let us move on to a small, convent-plain cell—Room "D" in the Faculty Club to meet Student President Dick Beahrs, history senior from Palo Alto; Ken Stahl, history senior from New York; Fred Reiner, English senior from the Mid-West, and Diane Moreland, political science senior from Santa Clara.

"Naturally, we're sending a telegram of sympathy and support to the Columbia students," one of them said. "They supported us when we were in trouble."

Uprising veterans

Miss Moreland and one of the young men participated in the 1964 uprising on the Berkeley campus. They were surprised and hurt, one guessed, when told that earlier in the day we had heard a professor say that most of the changes that occurred here after 1964 were administration-inspired and in fact had been in evolution for years before.

"Ridiculous," one said. "Many good things came to the students right after the trouble. The role of the student on this campus became immediately more important. We overcame the set way of faculty thinking."

"But there's a lot still to be done," the other said. "The fund that was set apart for new student-created projects is being tapped by the faculty. We're still not being used as much as we should be and want to be. We still find it difficult to communicate with most of the faculty, and they with us. Don't let anybody tell you we didn't shake up things around here. Before we reacted it was against university law to engage in political discussions on the campus. Now look."

More than 600 students were arrested during the 1964 disorders. But many more participated.

"It was unfair to punish only the leaders," Miss Moreland, an attractive girl, said in quiet retrospect. "Some of us went scot-free, though we followed our leaders faithfully."

Dangers lurk in marathon march

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The Johnson Administration is being bluntly warned that a number of dire developments can be anticipated unless the so-called "poor people's march" is prevented from afflicting the nation's capital with tens of thousands of indigent men, women and children.

To avert this grave danger, Attorney General Ramsey Clark is being vigorously pressed to immediately seek a sweeping injunction.

This demand is being forcefully advanced by Senator Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who as chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the District of Columbia's budget is an influential member of the Senate leadership. The proposed D.C. budget, in excess of $600 million, will necessitate new increases in both real estate and sales taxes.

Potential problems

Byrd has been urging Clark for several weeks to move for an injunction. He has discussed the matter with him personally, and his latest appeal is in the form of a telegram stressing the potentially disastrous problems the "march" presents. As detailed by Byrd, they are as follows:

(1) A breakdown of law and order, with a new eruption to rioting, looting, burning and homicides. Washington is still recovering from last month's destructive outbreaks following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King. Cost to the city in extra police, firemen and other emergency expenditures alone is estimated at more than $10 million.

Top officials of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) admit nothing is being done to exclude hoodlums, activists, agitators and other undesirable elements from the "march."

There are only two criteria for participation, "a SCLC spokesman told this column. "First, the people must be poor. Second, they must be in reasonably good health. We are not going to dig into anyone's personal background or ideology. We are assuming that everyone who takes part is sincere, law-abiding and believes in nonviolence."

(2) Serious public health menace due to lack of adequate sewage, water, refrigeration and medical facilities for the thousands of "poor marchers" to be housed in makeshift camps during the capital's torrid summer heat. Local hospitals already are overburdened with indigent cases, 80 per cent of them Negroes. This year's cost to the district of these patients is around $24 million.

SCLC officials, asked what measures are being taken to check on the physical condition of the "marchers," particularly women and children, and to take care of them in case of illness, shrugged their shoulders. It was clearly obvious they are not only doing nothing about this urgent problem, but intend to thrust it on either the D.C. or federal government, or both.

Byrd, in calling the administration's attention to their ominous situation, pointed out:

"An outbreak of typhoid or dysentery, or such killer diseases as spinal meningitis, all of which are spread and flourish under such primitive conditions as are envisioned, not only could seriously endanger the health of the poor people who are brought here, but the health of the citizens of the metropolitan area as well."

(3) Dislocate the city and disrupt the orderly functioning of the government, both of which already have suffered severely as a result of last month's extensive violence and destruction. Byrd pointed out that Washington is the nation's capital and belongs to all the people, and that already the city's business has been seriously hurt by a sharp reduction in tourists at the same time that local expenses have soared.

"This march will place an additional burden upon the already overtaxed Metropolitan Police Department," declared Byrd. "It will inconvenience the citizen of the metropolitan area, and interfere with the tourist business, and, as a result, have an adverse impact upon the city's revenue. It will further burden the taxpayers who will have to pick up the bill for the additional health and police measures."

(4) Set a highly undesirable precedent that will encourage more trouble-breeding marches and demonstrations. "Every citizen has a constitutional right to redress of grievances as long as he proceeds through the proper channels," said Byrd. "No one can find fault with that. And an affluent country has an obligation to do all it can to help the poor out of poverty. But this ill-conceived march carries the potential for doing more harm than good, and it can be very injurious to the nation's capital. Even more important, the immediate and long-run impact upon law and order and citizen respect for government will have suffered incalculably."

In his latest appeal to Attorney General Clark to seek an injunction to block the march, Byrd sternly reminded him it is his duty to protect the public and government.

Memorial poppy sales help disabled veterans, families

EAST STROUDSBURG — The poppies of the American Legion Aux. of Unit 346, East Stroudsburg, will be both a memorial to the past and aid for the future when the annual poppy sale is held Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week.

The poppies themselves have been made for the auxiliary by disabled war veterans working in hospitals and convalescent workshops. The work is considered valuable as occupational therapy in addition to giving the disabled men the encouraging experience of earning money once again.

All materials are supplied without cost by the American Legion Aux. which pays the hospitalized veteran for his work.

Plantings at Laurel Manor to be dedicated Thursday

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Garden Club will have a dedication of the plantings at Laurel Manor in a public ceremony on Thursday, May 16 at 2 p.m. on the grounds at Laurel Manor, 1170 West Main St., Stroudsburg.

The planting will be dedicated to all presidents of the Monroe County Garden Club, past, present and future.

The club's interest in civic development has been manifested throughout its 46-year history. Numerous plantings of flowers, shrubs and trees have been planted by the club at various times to beautify entrances to the area, to initiate roadside picnic areas and in many other sites. Unfortunately for many of these endeavors, there was no guarantee of permanence so many of them have been lost effort.

However, Laurel Manor offered an opportunity not only to give pleasure to the senior citizens who make it their home, but also hope of permanent evidence in beautification.

The project was initiated in a small way in 1961 with a living Christmas tree with lights, followed by donations of bulbs, annual flowers and bird baths.

Funds raised by card parties and other club projects were used to finance these improvements until 1964 when the first Sears Foundation Grant of $125 was awarded the club.

At that time a master landscape plan was presented and accepted. Additional grants of $100 in 1965 and $75 in 1966 were received. These were matched by the club so that to date a combined total of more than $1,000 has been invested in the plantings at Laurel Manor.

For the dedication, 36 special invitations have been sent to past presidents of the local club, to officials of the Garden Club Federation of Pennsylvania and of district 2, as well as to the heads of other local groups and interested contributors to Laurel Manor, and members of its Home Assn. Committee of which Mayor Joseph H. Small is president.

Jesse D. Pierson will represent Sears. Mrs. Raymond Price will read the dedication.

So that the residents of Laurel Manor may also enjoy the program it has been planned for its entertainment value.

Miss Elmore Morton, a student of Rush Accordion Studios in Wilson Borough and a member of the Pocono Junior Music Club, will play several of her trophy-winning selections.

A program of dances inspired by music and poetry about spring, gardens, flowers and trees will be presented by local students of Mrs. Charles Wolbers in the creative dance classes sponsored by East Stroudsburg State College.

Taking part in the program, hopefully outdoors, will be a prelude by Mary Jane Wolbers; a garden dance by Melissa Samet; Weeping Willow, Laurie Samet; To a Wild Rose, Marian Wolbers; "This You Can Keep," Judy Farmer; "Trees," Marian Thorne; and "Ode to Spring," Mary Jane Wolbers.

Guests will be introduced and refreshments will be served at the close of the program. Guests are asked to park in the rear at Laurel Manor.

Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin is chairman of the day and Mrs. John Gebbie is in charge of hostesses.

Two slightly injured during auto accident

CRESCO — Two men were injured early Friday morning when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree on a legislative route in Paradise Twp.

Both were taken to General Hospital of Monroe County where they were treated and released.

State Police from Mount Pocono identified the men as Floyd Kuhnaker of Henryville R.D. 1, driver of the car, and David Kresge, Scotrun.

According to police, Kuhnaker was traveling south when he failed to round a curve in the highway, lost control of the car, ran off the highway and skidded 324 feet before hitting a tree.

It is reported that the force of the crash "ripped the car in half."

The car is a total loss, police said.

Motorcycle rider hurt in accident

STROUDSBURG — William Gadatz of Delaware Water Gap was taken to General Hospital of Monroe County Monday afternoon when his motorcycle crashed into the side of a beer truck at the intersection of Park Ave. and Rt. 191 in Stroudsburg.

Gadatz was thrown to the concrete island in the intersection when he collided with a beer truck driven by Richard Courtright of 1128 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Gadatz was taken to the hospital where he was treated and released.

It is reported that Gadatz had just recently had his operator's license returned by the state.

Stroudsburg area couple files suit

STROUDSBURG — A Stroudsburg R.D. 2, couple, Wednesday, filed a 40-count equity action in Monroe County Court seeking to recover 1.39 acres of land in Hamilton Township.

The suit was filed by Attorney John Pentz in behalf of Herbert and Thilda Rundle. Named as defendant was Clinton C. Frantz, Jr., Pocono Township.

The plaintiffs claim that on March 7, 1967, they delivered a deed to the land to Frantz for the purpose of securing a $250 loan.

After that, according to the suit, a "confidential relationship" developed between Mrs. Rundle and Frantz. It is alleged that the defendant instructed Mrs. Rundle in certain matters.

It is also claimed that the plaintiffs have offered to repay the loan on several occasions.

The plaintiffs believe that the defendant is about to sell the lot and asked the court to stop any possible sale.

The plaintiffs are also seeking the return of the property.

Gadatz was taken to the hospital where he was treated and released.

It is reported that Gadatz had just recently had his operator's license returned by the state.

KRESGEVILLE — One man was hospitalized and another man was slightly hurt as a result of a two-car collision on Route 209 in Kresgeville, Wednesday, at 11:20 p.m.

Richard Hoffman, 23, of Parryville, was reported "doing good" according to authorities in Gaden Huetten Hospital where he was taken for observation.

Joseph Buchisky, 24, of Weissport, was treated and released from the hospital.

Both drivers were traveling in the same direction when Buchisky struck the rear of Hoffman's car, causing him to crash into a high tension wire pole which tied up traffic for nearly four hours, according to police.

Buchisky will be charged with hit and run driving. Investigating officers were troopers James Melber and John Artuso of Lehigh State Police.

At 3:15 a.m. Thursday, Lehigh State Police also reported a car rolled over at the intersection of Routes 209 and 534 near Kresgeville.

The operator, David A. McClone, 20, of 16 Harvard St., Lancaster, was not reported injured, according to police.

Television sets stolen from resort

MOUNT POCONO — Two 23-inch television sets were stolen recently from a Paradise Twp. resort.

The owner is offering $200 reward for information leading to the arrest of the guilty person or persons.

State Police at Mount Pocono didn't disclose the owner's name and said that any information should be given to the police in Mount Pocono.

The theft occurred between 7 p.m. and midnight Wednesday. Entry was gained, police believe, by use of a master key to unlock the doors to the rooms containing the television sets.

Value has been placed at $800 on the two sets.

Wilkes-Barre man in county jail

STROUDSBURG — William Ford of Wilkes-Barre, was committed to Monroe County Jail Friday afternoon by Stroudsburg Borough Police.

Ford is charged with public intoxication.

Commander lauds depot's work force

TOBYHANNA — The commanding officer of the Tobyhanna Army Depot, Col. Paul R. Poulin, praised T.A.D.'s 3,995 employees as "a most superior work force, equal to the best I've seen anywhere," in an interview Monday, on the kickoff of Armed Forces Week.

As he was citing the manpower growth of the Depot, 2,200 employees in 1955 to nearly a current authorized strength of 4,000, a group of 30 honeymooners from Paradise Stream were taking a two-hour tour through the vast complex of T.A.D.'s intricate system of materials and supplies sections.

Col. Poulin, who received his Master of Arts in Music from Columbia University in 1948, built his talk around harmony and point and counterpoint in T.A.D.'s ability to deliver strategic war materials on time, whether it be Western Germany, Korea or Vietnam.

"Packaging, storage and transportation," Col. Poulin said, "with highly skilled technicians delivering high priority items in the crucial field of maintenance and supply to Southeast Asia — this is the heart and brains of Tobyhanna Army Depot."

Col. Poulin stressed "maximum mobility" was the secret weapon in curtailing and responding to "brushfire wars" in which the United States might be challenged by an aggressor force.

He said he would be very surprised if the present talks in Paris on Vietnam led to some easy, quick solution. He couldn't see United States military forces "pulling out immediately."

He re-evaluated T.A.D.'s primary aim as striving continually for "greater sophistication" in all phases of packaging, storage and transportation.

He said that T.A.D. looks like it's here to stay as far as the physical plant, employee strength and overall capability meant in relation to dealing with a new administration in Washington.

"No one knows the plans of the next administration," he said, "but T.A.D. will do its share."

He cited that after the Korean war, T.A.D. still went on as before and that this will be the shape of its future if and when Vietnam is stabilized.

"I've visited over 30 United States Army Depots, 13 of which were major installations, and I can tell you that the calibre of our people in attitudes, skills and cooperation will match any other depot work force in this country," he said. "What's our greatest asset? The people working at T.A.D."

Small named to committee

Insurance issue flares again

STROUDSBURG — "It's the silliest thing I've ever heard, and you can print that," was the comment made Monday afternoon by Elwood Hintze, Monroe County Commissioner chairman, reacting to the announcement that Stroudsburg Mayor Joseph Small had been named chairman of a county-appointed insurance committee.

During the Monday meeting of the board, Small, the county's insurance agent of record, and not a member of the five-agency committee, told the commissioners that he was named chairman of the group by his own request.

The committee had been named by the board April 4, in an attempt to avoid another insurance hassle like the one which developed during the final meeting of the previous board when it was unable to arrive at a decision to either bid the coverage or present an outright contract.

It is hoped that the committee will present its recommendations on findings within a number of weeks.

According to Small, he was called Friday during a meeting of the committee in the courthouse and asked to serve as chairman.

He told the board that he was reluctant to serve and was "trapped" into being named chairman.

According to Hintze, the committee was unable to arrive at a decision on the chairman when Small was called.

According to two officials present at the Friday committee meeting, a temporary chairman, Henry Zimmer of the Crowe Agency, had been selected.

Harry Mullins, E. A. Bell, said that it was suggested that Small be called as a "courtesy gesture" by the committee.

According to William Reasor, chief clerk, Small, when contacted by phone, said he would be "over in five minutes."

Reasor declined to say who made the move to have Small named chairman of the committee, but an agent present at the session said that Donald Robbins, a Tannersville agent, made the suggestion that met with no opposition from the group.

Obviously surprised by the news, Hintze said he was "amazed and stupefied" by the announcement. "You could have knocked me over with a feather," he said following the meeting.

Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis said she reacted with disbelief on the appointment and was ready to phone the committee members to confirm their decision.

During the meeting before the board, Small reported that a recommendation of the committee would include an appraisal, to be done by an out of area concern, of county-owned property and content at a cost of from $3,000 to $5,000.

Three gain citizenship

STROUDSBURG — Three persons from Belgium, Germany and Shanghai became U.S. citizens during a swearing-in ceremony Monday afternoon in the Monroe County Courthouse.

Judge James Rutherford of Wayne County administered the oath to the three persons. They are:

Mrs. Shou Ling Eng, 24, of 727 Sarah St., a native of Shanghai; Mrs. Reta Durrenberger, 56, of 540 Main St., Stroudsburg, a native of Germany, and Claude G. Hucorne, 22, of East Stroudsburg R.D., a native of Belgium.

Judge Rutherford told the three they shouldn't feel like second class citizens, citing they are undoubtedly much more aware of the value of citizenship by the fact that they have applied for it.

Judge Rutherford likened their citizenship to an adopted child who at first may feel insecure because he is adopted, but explained an adopted child is a wanted child.

The three becoming citizens, proves that they are wanted, Judge Rutherford added. If they weren't wanted, the petition for citizenship could have been refused.

As citizens, the three persons have rights and privileges of the natural born citizens, Rutherford said.

S-burg engages financial advisor

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Municipal Authority, Monday night, officially obtained a financial consultant to aid them in the expansion of the water filter plant.

Authority members unanimously authorized that a contract be signed with Blair and Co. of Scranton.

Annexation issue still in dispute

DELAWARE WATER GAP — The Delaware Water Gap borough council renewed its long-standing battle with Smithfield Township over the annexation of 12 acres of land and 12 home owners who currently live on property owned by Harold Croasdale.

Both the borough and the township are evidently making strong overtures to lure these property owners into their respective camps.

Smithfield has said that if the owners remove their petition to be annexed into the Gap, the township will build a road.

Borough solicitor Harry Lee advised the council that before any road improvement can be made, the borough must seek a right-of-way from the property owners to improve the road.

He cited that the delay in annexation can be attributed to Smithfield's legalistic proceed-ures and that these procedures are entirely within the law.

Steven Matos, council president, said that Smithfield Township promised the property owners the road in three months if they would withdraw their annexation petition.

Lee said he has found that the state township organization is more powerful in Harrisburg than the borough state organization and that the township organization has tried to make annexation more difficult to accomplish in the legislature.

Matos maintained that the borough can't take over the road without first arriving at a cost estimate.

Council member John Williams suggested contacting the home owners to make them aware of the benefits of living in the borough, benefits such as police and fire protection and garbage service.

Eastburg to lose its 'Music Man'

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg High School's Music Man — Robert Zellner — is resigning.

The 35-year-old band director, who has directed the East Stroudsburg High School Band into numerous state championships, is resigning to teach on the college level, he said Monday night.

Zellner will present his resignation officially at the East Stroudsburg Board of Education meeting Monday night. His intentions, however, were no surprise by late last night.

Reluctant at first to discuss his resignation, Zellner, moments later, smiled and said, "I'd like to try college level instruction. I hate to leave this group and these kids. This band is just wonderful."

The band instructor at East Stroudsburg for 12 years, Zellner said he has received offers for teaching in college for the last six years.

"I guess now I'd better try," he said. "If I want to try, I have to do it now. I'm getting older."

Zellner will begin teaching instrumental music, music appreciation and direct the band at Gettysburg College this September. He will stay in East Stroudsburg, however, until the school board finds a replacement.

Clement Wiedinmyer, who recently announced his retirement as head of the East Stroudsburg Music Department, attended a band concert which Zellner conducted last night for the Band Mothers.

After the band concluded a resounding "Stars and Stripes Forever," and adjourned to the cafeteria for some refreshments, he said this of Zellner: "I feel that the school loses not only the best instrumental teacher alone, but the best high school band director." Wiedinmyer, who has worked with Zellner for 12 years, said he is also losing a good friend.

"I've had 12 very great years," Zellner said.

Known as "Mr. Z" to his students, Zellner was what one might call a music drop-out when young.

"I wasn't too successful at first," he said of his early years in his native Nazareth. "My dad was ready to give up on me."

But music was all around him. His father, Wilson, was a musician and opened a music studio in Nazareth.

Zellner began his music career when a senior in high school. He started with the tenor saxophone, which he still plays today.

A 1954 graduate of West Chester College, Zellner entered the Army and was with the 101st Army Division Band for two years.

He joined the East Stroudsburg faculty in September, 1956.

Zellner, married to the former Arlene Heckman of Allentown, lives at Exchange St. and Secor Ave., East Stroudsburg. The couple has two children, Kathy, 11, and Gary, eight.

Jury convicts driver

STROUDSBURG — A Monroe County Jury of nine men and three women deliberated only 30 minutes Monday before finding an East Stroudsburg man guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor in the first trial of the May term.

Harry K. Premus, East Stroudsburg, was found guilty of the violation with sentence to be announced at a later date by President Judge Arlington W. Williams.

District Attorney Philip Williams and Assistant District Attorney Phillip Santucci presented the Commonwealth's first case of the term on a complaint filed by Richard Duklis, Stroudsburg State Police.

Attorney Peter J. O'Brien was counsel for the defendant.

Serving on the jury were: Robert Davenport, Stroudsburg R.D. 3; Norman A. Dietrick, Stroud Twp.; Stanley J. Hartman, Pocono Twp.; Robert Hay, Delaware Water Gap; Camilla Henry, Barrett Twp.; Judith L. Klofack, East Stroudsburg R.D. 3; Mildred Lesone, Price Twp.

Ernest Martz, Jr., East Stroudsburg R.D. 5; Howard P. Merring, Stroud Twp.; Martin Martensen, Coolbaugh Twp.; Robert O. Shell, Jr., Stroudsburg R.D. 1, and Warren J. Smith, Chestnut Hill Twp.

Court will continue this morning with the case of the Commonwealth vs. John E. Fish, Cresco, on charges of assault and battery filed by Violet L. Fish, his wife.

Edwin Krawitz is attorney for the defendant.

UCC to support Cedar Crest drive

POCONO MANOR — Penn Northeast Conference of the United Church of Christ meeting Monday in Pocono Manor Inn, voted to support Cedar Crest College in Allentown in seeking $100,000 from the churches of the conference toward its proposed $1,000,000 Student Activity Building.

The college is a UCC sponsored institution.

Action also was taken to provide funds "immediately available" for the "crisis in the nation" program of the church.

The socially active church

Monday night heard the Rev. Dr. Herbert E. Van Meter, secretary of interpretation for the board of world ministries, summarize conditions of world living.

"Let me remind you that this little world we live in is neither white nor Christian nor Capitalists. It cares little for American power and not at all for our pretense. It's needs will not wait."

"The future presses upon us. Responsible authorities are now saying world famine is now here."

Council meets

Housing deficiencies spotted

STROUDSBURG — A five-man panel Monday night led a discussion of housing problems and possible solutions for Monroe County residents during a more than two-hour session of the County Better Housing Council in the basement of St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

Sitting on the panel were Raymond Condo, representing the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania; Robert Pinder, Stroudsburg Planning Commission; Leonard Ziolkowski, executive director of the county planning commission; King Beers, executive director of the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County, and Clem Price, a contractor.

More than 30 interested persons including representatives of the clergy, Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, county commissioner, Stuart F. Pipher, former commissioner and chairman of the Redevelopment Authority, and Jesse Lynch, president of the area chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were present at the session.

Ziolkowski told the group that "Housing is everyone's business," and claimed that "we all have a part" in developing a good housing program in Monroe County.

He said, however, that Monroe County is "better off" than most municipalities or counties, but admitted what he termed "glaring areas" of neglect exist in the area.

The planning director labeled the First Ward of Stroudsburg, Stofflet St., and areas in East Stroudsburg as in need of attention.

He also said that certain "barriers" must be abolished in setting up housing programs such as discrimination in some private clubs and developments.

Citing what may be the crux of obtaining federal funds for housing programs, Ziolkowski said that at present only East Stroudsburg could qualify for funds because it has a workable program and building codes.

He also said "citizen participation" was vital and necessary in planning and implementing housing programs in an area.

He also added that there is a "ray of hope" in Monroe

County and that he did not wish to "paint a black picture" of the area's problems.

ASI wins airport bid at Hazleton

HAZLETON — Aviation Service International, Inc., Lock Haven, the organization which operates the Pocono Mountain Airport, Monday night was awarded a contract to provide similar services at the Hazleton Municipal Airport.

Hazleton City Council awarded the airport contract to the company headed by Eugene Locke over a bid by Pocono Airlines, owned by Wally Hoffman, owner of the Birchwood.

ASI agreed to pay the city $200 a month rental and one per cent on such items as aircraft sales, fuel and oil sales, concessions and flight instruction.

Pocono Airlines said it would pay no rent and would turn over no gross receipts.

The bidding:

The bidding:
Opening lead—six of hearts.
Let's say you're declarer at three notrump and West leads a heart. East wins with the king and returns the jack, which you duck in the hope that East started with the K-J alone.

When the jack holds, East switches to the queen of spades and you make a mental note that West originally had six hearts.

You win the spade with the king and cash the A-Q of clubs. Surprisingly, East shows out on the second club.

While this unexpected blow may be momentarily disconcerting, it is by no means an unfavorable development.

As a matter of fact you should now feel 100 per cent sure of the contract since you cannot possibly be stopped from making four diamond tricks regardless of how the remaining cards are divided.

Having learned that West started with six hearts and four clubs, you cash the ace of spades and queen of diamonds. When West follows to both of them, his original distribution is revealed as 2-6-1-4.

You therefore lead dummy's ten of diamonds, intending to finesse. If East covers, he merely postpones his agony, since you win with the king and return to dummy with a club for another diamond lead through the nine.

You can also make the contract in an entirely different way by cashing the A-K of diamonds after East returns the spade queen at trick three.

With West failing to follow to the second diamond, you compel him to reveal his entire hand by cashing the A-Q of clubs. As soon as East shows out, discarding a spade, you know West started with precisely six hearts, one diamond, four clubs and, hence, two spades.

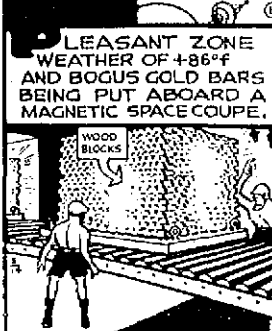

You cash the ace of spades, lead a club to the king, and throw East into the lead with a spade. He cashes the J-10 but must then lead a diamond from his J-9 into dummy's Q-10.

All of which merely proves that there's more than one way to skin a cat.

East Stroudsburg carrier wins 'New York Contest'

STROUDSBURG — A 14-year-old East Stroudsburg youth received $150 cash after he won first prize in "The New York Contest" sponsored by The Pocono Record for its 68 news-payer boys.

The boy, Raymond Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Morris of 428 Normal St., East

Stroudsburg, had sold the most subscriptions in a two week period than the 67 other paperboys.

The contest began April 22 and ended May 4. Edward Smith, route supervisor, said that Raymond had a choice of first prize by either taking the $150 cash or go to

New York City for a weekend with his family.

The contest was based solely on new subscriptions acquired by the youths from persons on their paper route. Raymond's paper route encompasses the Normal and Taylor Streets area in East Stroudsburg.

P.V. readies kindergarten

BRODHEADSVILLE — An estimated 100 pupils will attend kindergarten classes at Eldred and Chestnut Hill elementary schools in the Pleasant Valley School District next year.

Mrs. Nettie Romascavage, recently elected Pleasant Valley school director, questioned the administration's authority to implement a kindergarten program during a January school board meeting.

She objected the use of the word "stations" in referring to "kindergarten stations" and wanted a more concise explanation of the word from the board.

Board president John Rinker replied he thought a station was simply a building and that in this particular case, a building for a kindergarten.

A morning and afternoon session will be instituted at the Eldred and Chestnut Hill schools. The sessions will last from two-and-a-half to three hours.

The curriculum will include planned activities, games with free play centered on child determined selections. Physical education will highlight "basic skills and coordination."

The kindergarten pupils will be bussed to and from both sessions with drivers adhering to "established district routes."

The additional bussing will cost the school $25,000, according to supervising principal John Mills.

Disorderly visitor leaves

EAST STROUDSBURG — Charles P. Richards, 44, of Philadelphia, was ordered out of East Stroudsburg following a hearing before East Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace Harold D. Larison Sr. on charges of being disorderly.

Richards told the court that he would leave town as he did not have too much money. He paid a fine and cost and purchased a bus ticket.

He left the bus station and was later picked up and committed to Monroe County Jail. He left Friday for Philadelphia on a bus from Stroudsburg.

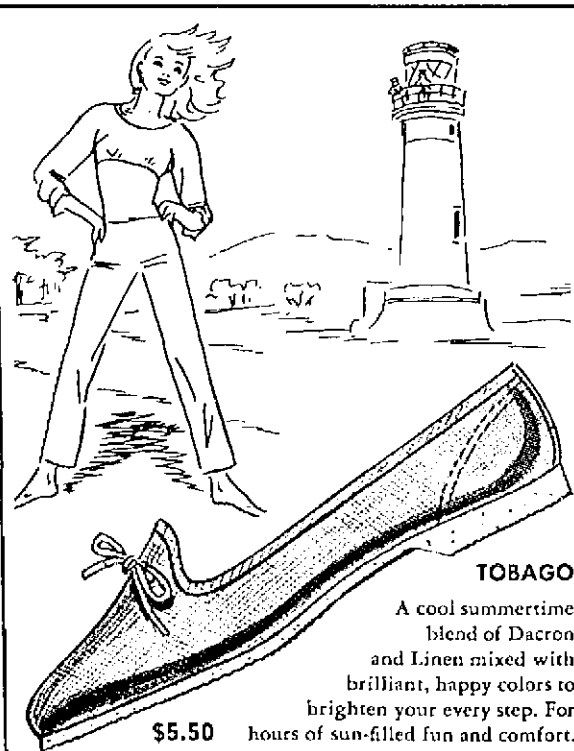

Gypsy Moth tourist threat

STROUDSBURG — Henry Nixon, director of Bureau of Plant Industry, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, was the guest speaker at the Stroudsburg Rotary Club last week.

Nixon said the survey and control of Gypsy Moth is on a co-operative basis between the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the state.

He added that if the moth is not controlled they can completely defoliate an area which will adversely affect the tourist industry and thousands of board feet of lumber.

The state has more than 15,000 moth traps in eastern part of the state. By checking the traps, infected areas can be located and sprayed later to kill the moth.

Adopted child favored

Dear Ann Landers: Four years ago my cousin and her husband were killed in an automobile accident. My husband was driving and I was seated beside him. We walked away from the totally demolished car without a scratch. It was one of those freak accidents no one could explain.

A lovely little girl (two years old at the time) was orphaned as a result of that accident, so my husband and I adopted her. The following year we had our first child — a son. It is apparent to everyone who comes into this house that my husband is extremely partial to the little girl. Our own boy gets no affection, just yelled at. His father has infinite patience with the girl. Everything our boy does irritates him.

Doesn't it seem strange that a father would favor an adopted child over his own? I need some help, Ann, because I see signs of serious trouble ahead if something isn't done.

BOSTON

Dear Boston: It may well be that your husband has some guilt feelings in connection with the death of this child's parents and is trying to compensate by being overly attentive to her. Your natural resentment against your husband for mistreating his own son is producing additional trouble, and he is bound to feel it.

I hope you will both discuss this problem with a specialist. Professional help could be very useful.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a career girl who swore off serious entanglements when a gentleman with whom I went for four years literally stood me up at the church.

I met a very attractive man at a respectable swimming club several weeks ago and we hit it off together immediately. He was divorced and friendly and attentive. The problem — he can consume a staggering quantity of liquor without showing it, and then all of a sudden he passes out cold.

The first time this occurred I was certain he had had a heart attack. What worries me to death is that he insists on driving — drunk or sober — and it is impossible to tell when he has made the transition. I don't want to insult him and insist on driving, yet I'm afraid one day he will drive us both into the Hudson River. What do you suggest?

CHICKEN

Dear Chick: Since the guy obviously drinks like a fish, tell him you'll swim with him but you won't drive with him. And make it stick. Better he should be insulted than you should be dead.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you?

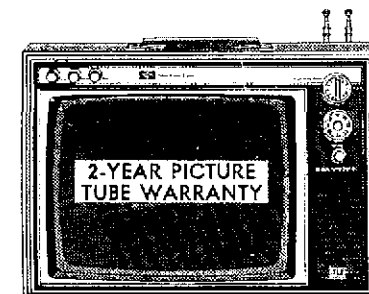

Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.
